RE: Fuller, Phaszon, CDCR# AB5770

When Fuller plead to being a felon in possession of ammunition he was on Parole for a violent Robbery where he used a firearm, he was a validated gang member and he was also a suspect in a homicide. Fuller has continued to violate any type of supervision or court order. Specifically, he committed new crimes while on Parole, [REDACTED] and also has associated with other known gang members when specifically ordered not to by the Court. He has total disregard for all authority and takes no responsibility for the crimes he commits.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] In 2013 when he committed the Robbery he used a firearm. In that case he and his co-defendant approached a male and female and demanded their belongings. Fuller shoved a firearm in the face of the Victims and ordered his co-defendant to go through their backpacks. The co-defendant sexually assaulted the female as he was taking her personal property. The female victim was so scared of Fuller and his co-Defendant she urinated on herself. Very violent behavior by Fuller especially for being so young. This violent criminal has no business being around any ammunition and should be held accountable for doing so.

I urge the Board to closely scrutinize inmate Fuller's C file, it would be nothing short of miraculous if those records show a sudden turnaround in behavior by a man who has consistently committed new crimes especially while being under some sort of supervision.

For these reasons the Sacramento County District Attorney's Office strongly believes that he is not an appropriate candidate for early parole. It is our hope that inmate Fuller will serve his full prison term. Inmate Fuller's victims and all of society deserve as much from a man whose life continues to show that he is unwilling to follow the rules.
